

Such an event could easily become an annual tradition. Barbara Yezzer really got into it. BY: "If my mother could only see me now, after all these years, my elation lessons have paid off." Only Sonnet & Kelly & I looked up as the others read. Everyone else seemed to keep his or her eyes glued on the text. I like my mum the idea of the group reading and will doubtless arrange other such soirees here at Elddale. Someone, possibly Susan, stated: "Well, we've been out here in November & out here in October. When are we coming out here in December?"

7.
We shall see. I shall think on the matter and arrange a December gathering here at Elddale.

at no point during the day (probably as Sue was taking the official photograph), Howard Yezzer stated: "No picture of the group reading will probably appear in the paper." possibly it will. How can I arrange it. What will be the story's angle?

"If you were to boil your book down to a few words, what would be its message?"

What a diabolical cartoon. As a writer of "large books," I frequently have to endure such ridiculous requests from le monde.
